

Drum assignment due Thursday, November 13th

Hello, dear Parents,

It's time to conclude our sound studies with a drum jam session! The older friends have been learning about how sound can be made and changed, and what receives sound. They listened to guest musicians play stringed instruments and are more than welcome to incorporate strings/rubber bands.

This assignment is for all ages in the classroom.

This homework assignment is always a classroom favorite. Please help your child construct a drum to bring in and play during circle time. If your child prefers to make a different instrument, that effort will be very welcome, too!

You can use, but are not limited to:

1. balloons
2. cans
3. paper
4. rice/beans/cereal
5. empty containers of any sort
6. rubber bands
7. tape

Please help your child decorate the drum for a polished finished product.

We can't wait to see the drums that the children bring to school and to hear the beautiful, boisterous noise that will ensue!

Thank you so much for your support,

Rachel
